

ACT NOW

Normalize Relations with Cuba

The United States embargo on Cuba hurts the U.S. economy by giving up a major trade market, which instead is served by Europe and the rest of the world. It may make life more uncomfortable for the average person in Cuba, but it doesn't achieve its supposed intent of destabilizing the Castro government.

Voices as diverse as church groups, human-rights organizations, and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce have called for normalizing relations with Cuba ... but instead, the Bush Administration is imposing a pointless and disruptive crackdown.

Take action:

Write a Letter!

Go online and write a letter urging the White House to normalize relations with Cuba:

<http://www.progressiveportal.org/letters/global/cuba>

2001-12-24

Normalize US relations
with Cuba

www.progressiveportal.org/letters/global/cuba

Normalize US relations
with Cuba

www.progressiveportal.org/letters/global/cuba

Normalize US relations
with Cuba

www.progressiveportal.org/letters/global/cuba